

Young curator

Age

14-18 y.o.

Campaign

Art & Food in the Centuries

Time

4 hours

Topic	Young curators
Summary	The students are requested to choose, among the paintings present in the selected collection, the item they prefer. They are then requested to run short research on the painting, and prepare a presentation describing its key historical, artistic and aesthetic characteristics.
Educational objectives	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Stimulate the students to look at a painting with a critical eye ● Increase their capacity to write a short text highlighting the characteristics of a piece of art.
Materials	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● The CrowdSchool Europeana collection ● Books of Art History and links to online cultural platforms
How to implement the activity	After a common introduction of the activity at school, the students are requested to work at home, independently or in small groups, preparing a research on the painting(s) they have selected. Each student / group is then invited to report on the work done, presenting the painting to the rest of the class and showing the results of the research done.
Suggestions	Students can be invited to work in small groups and present to their school fellows the results of their discussion, in order to exchange their ideas and increase their capacity to express concepts and opinions in public.
Authors	Francesca Napoli, Annarita Ferroni, IsArt Liceo Artistico Arcangeli